Richard M. Nixon

NIXON-AGNEW

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon in his second try apparently has been elected President of the United States with 287 electoral votes.

Two possibilities, however remote, remained that Hubert H. Humphrey might spoil Nixon's comeback.

In Illinois, last of the big states to indicate its choice, it was conceivable if not likely that a recheck might put Humphrey in the lead there.

A resurvey of votes in all the states just possibly might turn up unsuspected errors.

The News Election Service, which compiled results for all media, said it believed the returns reported from yesterday's election were reliable.

But it announced it was making a precautionary county-by-county recheck of results from all 50 states.

Nixon and Humphrey ran neck and neck in the popular vote. But the Republican piled up an electoral vote which apparently assured his victory.

His winning margin came when Illinois' 26 electoral votes were added to the 261 Nixon previously had won in other states. This put him well past the 270 needed for election. Returns from 92 per cent of the nation's precincts gave: Nixon — 29,010,105 popular votes, 43 per cent and 287 electoral votes.

Humphrey — 28,814,284 popular, 43 per cent and 181 electoral.

Independent party candidate George C. Wallace — 9,036,480, 13 per cent and 45 electoral.

Nixon moved into a commanding lead shortly after 8 a. m. EST when his native state of California with 40 electoral votes raised his total to 261.

Shortly after 11 a. m. EST it became apparent that Nixon—again barring the unexpected, also would get Illinois' 26 votes, putting him well over the top.

The Illinois vote at 11:18 a. m. EST with 93 per cent of precincts reported showed:

Nixon 1,996,579

Humphrey 1,879,453

Wallace 34,926

The situation in remaining undecided states: In Alaska with three electoral votes Nixon was leading Humphrey by 197 popular votes. Humphrey, however, was leading in Maryland with 10 electoral votes and Missouri with 12.

Missouri, where Humphrey was leading by 11,000, has about 100,000 absentee ballots to be counted this coming weekend.

Maryland, showing a Humphrey lead of 19,000 had 35,000 absentee to be counted Thursday.

The national popular vote lead had switched several times last night and early today between Nixon and Humphrey, and for hours it appeared possible that Wallace might be able to pick the next President by having his 45 electors—won in five Southern states—cast their votes Dec. 16 for one or the other major party candidate.

Nixon's margin in Illinois forestalled that and also the other possibility that the new Democratic-controlled House of Representatives might have to pick the 37th President on Jan. 6.

Meanwhile, the Democrats claimed comfortable control of the new 91st Congress despite some losses.

The indicated lineup in the Senate was 58 Democrats and 42 Republicans, a GOP gain of five.

The indicated House lineup was 244 Democrats and 191 Republicans a GOP gain of only three.

Republicans made larger proportional gains in state houses, registering a net gain of five in governorships to give them 31 to 19 for the Democrats. This exceeded the 30 statehouses the GOP held after Dwight D. Eisenhower's landslide victory 16 years ago.

Both sides suffered surprising losses in the congressional and governorship races.

Possibly the biggest upset victim among the veteran Democratic senators was A. S. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma, who was beaten by Republican former Gov. Henry Bellmon. The Republicans' most stunning de-

Storage Place For Brush Fire Truck Is Needed

The Murray Rescue Squad is in need of a temporary location to keep its brush fire truck during the cold winter months.

The 300-gallon tanker is presently kept in the county road barn and it is feared that during the freezing weather the tank will be damaged.

Plans are already in the works to erect a permanent firehouse to coincide with the arrival of the squad's new $14,500 fire truck. In the meantime, however, the brush fire unit which is provided by the State Division of Forestry must be kept in a heated garage or it cannot be available for any emergency in below-freezing weather.

If anyone has a garage that is or can be heated and is available to the Rescue Squad please call the squad at 753-6982.

Charles Mason Baker of the Kentucky Lake Shell Oil Company has donated five gallons of Shellzone Antifreeze to the Murray Squad in order to protect the cooling systems of their three vehicles during the winter weather.

Contributions are still urgently needed on the purchase of the new fire truck which is currently being built by the Howe Fire Equipment Company at its Vinton, Va., factory.

Burken, soil conservationist in McCracken County, gave information concerning soil erosion in the city, on county roads and in the suburbs. He gave methods of controlling erosion, and named "government programs, including the use of engineering services and machinery to all interested home owners. He called attention to the individual's responsibility in helping to control erosion by seeding, grading and proper drainage; thus creating beautiful suburbs, city lots, highway frontage and a good over-all appearance.

Burken showed with slides, several vines for bank plantings, one of the newest being the crown vetch which makes a beautiful flowering coverage.

The natural beauty of the Green River and other interesting spots were shown and Burken concluded his talk by saying that conservation covers wild life, forestry and rivers, preserved in the natural state to be used in recreation and study for man.

Louis Balthaser, chapter regent, conducted the business meeting.

Mrs. Inez Hardin gave a memorial for Mrs. Mary Brame, a former chapter member from Mayfield.

Mrs. Fred Earhardt, chairman for services of veteran patients, talked about the chapter's interest and support of the veterans in this area. Each member is asked to send a Christmas contribution or gift to the veterans who have helped defend our country.

The advertising committee, Mrs. H. R. Lessley and Mrs. Thomas a Ward, reported that only a few ads were needed to complete the two-page advertisement in the DAR National Magazine for the April issue.

In reporting on National Defense, Mrs. Carl Williams told the members of "The Goals and Objectives of Subversive Elements at Home and Abroad."

She led in a prayer for the continued survival and influence of the nation.

Racers Tough, Says Dupes

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn. — "They have the best over-all team we will have seen since Chattanooga," was Bill Dupes summation of the Austin Peay State Governors' opponent this Saturday.

THE GOVS, fresh from a 47-20 conquest of Findlay College (Ohio), will return to Ohio Valley Conference competition when they host the Murray State Racers in Clarksville Saturday at 2 p.m.

They can do more with a football than any team we've played except Chattanooga," Dupes continued. "They have a great offensive line — the best we will see this year with the exception of the Mocs."

Before anyone gets the idea that the Racers will handle the Govs the way Chattanooga did, Dupes is quick to indicate differently.

"We've made a great deal of progress since we opened with a football than any team we really couldn't tell it until our third game (Eastern Kentucky edged the Govs 21-20)," Dupes stated.

"WE HAVE HAD several individuals to come along in the first six games, but I believe the real difference in our team is the fact that we have started playing as a unit," Dupes concluded.

The Govs will have to continue to play as a unit this Saturday if they are to stay with Murray. The Racers feature the league's total offense leader and leading passer in quarterback Larry Tillman.

In his first six games, Tillman has completed 84 of 162

"It was just in terms of performance," Brown explained. "It's as simple as that."

The Bengals signed halfback Steve Grady from Southern California.

Grady, 6-foot-1 and 216 pounds, was an understudy to both Mike Garrett and O. J. Simpson at Southern Cal.

Grady had a brief trial last season with the Denver Broncos.

Wills, 3 Partners, Open Pittsburgh 'Banjo House'
PITTSBURGH, Pa. — It isn't a saloon and it isn't a restaurant, yet it sells drinks and sandwiches. Even the name is something odd: The Stolen Base.

This is the new banjo house opened in downtown Pittsburgh by Maury Wills, two aids of Mayor Joseph Barr of Pittsburgh and an architect.

Although Wills lives in Spokane, Wash., with his wife and six children, his partners say he will spend much time in Pittsburgh at the new venture, watching, listening and sometimes playing the banjo.

Since he helped the mayor with a youth program last summer, Wills has had an office in City Hall. Although this was a non-salaried position for 1,139 yards and 14 TD's. Three of Murray's receivers — Billy Hess, Gerald Young and Jack Wolf — were in the top 10 in the OVC last week.

Defensively, APSU is paced by half a dozen in tackles and assists. Donny Holland (37-31), Bill Blair (35-37), Doug Pittenger (32-33), Bruce Gibbs (27-19), Howell Platt (26-23) and David Phillips (22-24) are the defensive stalwarts for APSU.

Rev. Mattingly, Attorney Overbey, And Dr. Dodson Speakers At Community Day

The three speakers for World Community Day illuminated the meaning and purpose of its observance by Church Women United. This Day is an annual call on the first Friday in November to recognition of the international brotherhood of man in a world community, inherent in the creation of mankind in the image of God. Mrs. William Porter, president, said.

Rev. Martin Mattingly narrated the deeply meaningful story of the shoe cobbler who was visited by Christ in the persons of three destitute people, to whose needs he ministered. The story illustrates the Scripture verse "Inasmuch as ye did it unto the least of these my brethren, ye did it unto me."

Attorney Don Overbey quietly challenged CWU members, in the light of the principles of Christianity, to become better acquainted with the basic concepts of the founders of our nation, and of various decisions of the Supreme Court, such as those with reference to prayer in the schools and to equal opportunity for all citizens.

Dr. Samuel R. Dodson, Jr., described the church as "the conscience of society" and said

Murray Women Guests Of Bishop And Mrs. Finger

Five wives of Methodist ministers in Murray and Calloway County were luncheon guests of Bishop and Mrs. Ellis Finger in Nashville, Tenn., last Thursday. They were Mrs. Cecil Kirk, Mrs. Samuel R. Dodson, Jr., Mrs. Neva Maxedon, Mrs. Dossie Wheatley, and Mrs. Tommy Jackson.

The Murray women joined 20 other Susannas from the Paris District and 23 from the Brownsville District of the Memphis Conference in an exciting afternoon in the home of the Bishop and his family. Bishop Finger is the Bishop of the Memphis Conference of the United Methodist Church and he and Mrs. Finger have entertained the Susannas from each district of the conference during the month of October.

William Boyd And Owen Billington Guest Speakers

Mrs. G. T. Lilly, teacher of the Home Economics III class at Murray High School, has had two local business men as special guest lecturers for the class. The students are studying "Family Finances" learning how to distribute it wisely.

William Boyd of the Peoples Bank of Murray, spoke to the girls on "Why Should You Have A Checking Account". He discussed the different forms of accounts in the bank, how to write a check, and how to reconcile the bank statement.

The other guest speaker was Owen Billington of the Murray Insurance Agency who discussed the different types of insurance especially those needed by young homemakers and young couples.

Mrs. Lilly and her class expressed appreciation to the local business men for their informative and interesting talks.

it should call and inspire all Christians to love and serve humanity in the spirit of Christ. He mentioned the tutoring program now underway at Austin School, staffed with volunteer tutors, as an exciting example of the expression of Christian love and concern.

Completed kits of garments and gift certificates for blankets were brought to the altar by representatives of the member churches, to be sent through Church World Service to assist the needy, the refugees, and the homeless. The offering taken will go to supplement the giving on this day of millions of other church women for particular projects to strengthen Christian life in other lands and to promote more widely in this country the peace program of Church Women United. "Thus, says Mrs. Charles C. Simons, World Community Day local chairman, "this observance becomes a spiritual undertaking through which millions of church women rededicate themselves to building life, friendship, and universal peace through a program of prayer, study, and action."

Pretender Ponders Career as Actress

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 11 years old and I want to become a famous actress. I think I would be very good at it because ever since I was a little girl I have been very good at "pretending" and that is what acting is, isn't it? Do I have to finish high school to be an actress?
LISA

DEAR LISA: Finish high school. And college, too, if you have a chance. Being good at "pretending" might help a lot because there may be times when you have to "pretend" that you are eating.

DEAR ABBY: About 2 years ago my husband announced that he wanted no part of our marriage or any of its responsibilities. He turned to alcohol, "go go" girls, sports cars and everything he once considered immoral, irresponsible and extravagant.

We are now having a lot of problems with our children. They are doing poor work in school and are hard to handle at home. The school counselor called me to inquire into our "home situation."

My husband insists it is none of their business, and how our kids do at school has nothing to do with the way we live at home. He has pointed out other families in which the home life is a mess, but the kids seem to come out all right. Is he right, or am I just nit-picking?
CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: When home is a battleground, the casualties are usually the children. Some do survive in spite of the odds, but show me a rebellious, troubled child, and I will show you a home situation riddled with discord.

DEAR ABBY: About the cross-eyed woman who chewed out her daughter's boyfriend because she offered him a cup of coffee and he said, "I didn't answer you right away because I never realized before that you were cross-eyed, and I didn't know you were talking to me."

My sympathy is with the boy. When I was in school, I had a Spanish teacher who was very cross-eyed. She would ask a general question and three people would answer her from different parts of the room. Naturally, this caused a lot of embarrassment.

If this cross-eyed woman is sensitive about her eyes, she should not leave herself wide open for such embarrassment to herself and others. I also learned from my mother that it is proper and courteous to address a person by his name.

CROSS ABOUT IT

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to ask if you have ever heard of a "moon healer."

There used to be one in Sioux City, Ia. I suffered with a pain in my side for a long time. The doctor told me I should have an operation, but I didn't want that. So I went to this moon healer and she said to just let it go until I had one more attack and after that it wouldn't bother me anymore. Well, it's been 50 years, and I am 72 years old and I'm still here.

I now have another pain. This one is in my head and I sure wish I could find another moon healer someplace. Can you help me locate one?
HEADACHE

DEAR HEADACHE: Sorry, but I know of no "moon healer." But in the meantime, I would recommend a doctor.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 8700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90068 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Miss Rita Chaney Presides At Meet

The Executive Council of the Calloway County High School Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America recently held their November meeting with the president, Rita Chaney, presiding.

The officers repeated the opening rituals and Jackie Budako gave the treasurer's report.

Charlotte Harmon, song leader, explained the difference in the state song and arrangements were made to teach the song to the Freshmen members. Dortha Jackson passed out copies of the by-laws and explained the changes in them.

Plans were made for the next meeting and the officers discussed how they could better carry out their duties as officers. The meeting was adjourned with the officers repeating the creed.

Down the Garden Path

By Mrs. W. F. WILLIAMS

Bulbs are beginning to arrive and planting time is growing short. It will take a few extra moments and a little extra effort to plant them in the right way, but our reward comes in the spring when the tulips, daffodils and crocus bloom out in all their glory.

The larger bulbs need to be planted deep — three times the depth of the bulb — to anchor them firmly, and when put in the ground this deep, the blossoms will continue the same size year after year. The bulbs will not divide as rapidly but I think having the larger blooms each year is worth the difference. I have seen jonquils grow smaller each season when planted only a couple of inches deep.

A handful of sand placed immediately under the bulb will give drainage. And here again, the prime requisite is good loose soil, with plenty of room underneath for the roots to expand.

Crocus, those welcome blossoms in early spring, can be planted in shallow beds or scattered over the lawn. I like this way better. Just take a handful of the bulbs and drop them, then plant them where they land. They will have the look of having just popped up where nature wanted them. Crocus bulbs are so cheap and easy to plant that they should be a part of every landscape. They come in almost every color and often will bloom with snow on the ground. They have the added advantage of being through blooming before the lawn has to be mowed, so they can be scattered through the lawn anywhere. They will bloom in the shade, under trees and other spots where some flowers have trouble. And best of all they come at a time when we are all so weary of ice and snow and a world bereft of blossoms that they are verily jewels of the flower world.

Those of you who have a parsley border, may continue to enjoy this delightful herb by transplanting some of the smaller plants in a pot. There are seedlings right now that have sprouted from the seeds dropped early in the season. They will continue to grow and even look pretty in a kitchen window. So many of the annuals, such as dwarf marigolds or zinnias, dropped their seeds earlier and you will find dozens of tiny plants under the original one, protected from the frosts of this week and they will bloom through the winter and make a bright spot of color in the rooms.

As the flowers of the season leave us they seem to be saying in the words of an unknown writer, "I'll be seeing you, for Heaven will need a lot of good gardens."

Young Family Needs Stated for Builders

By JOHN PIERSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Homebuilders, you'd better become bird watchers. And the bird you'd better watch is the stork.

That's the advice of a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, Robert L. Rand. If you pay attention to the stork, Rand told a recent meeting of California homebuilders in Las Vegas, you'll see what kind of homes you ought to be building to meet the needs of Americans in the coming decade. Apartments.

Between now and 1975, there are going to be more than 10 million new American households, Rand said. About 1.7 million of the new households are going to be under 25 years old, 4.9 million 25 to 34, 1.5 million 35 to 44 and 2.2 million 45 and over.

It's "no surprise" that the increase is heavily concentrated in the younger age group, Rand told the builders. These are the long-awaited "war babies" of World War II, grown up, educated, probably out of the service and about now heading their own families.

What kind of housing will they need and what can they afford? "It seems logical that there will be greater need first for apartments," Rand said.

In the 1950s, land was relatively cheap, even close to the center of town. Construction costs were low and so were real estate taxes. It was possible to build homes and sell them to newlyweds with the slogan "it's cheaper to buy than to rent."

But land and building costs, real estate taxes and the cost of living generally are now rising faster than the income of many young couples. "They will have to adjust first to apartment living before becoming homeowners," Rand said.

Actually, apartment — first house-later was a more than "normal pattern" of the years before the 1950s, he added.

Additional advice for the builder-bird watchers: Design your apartments with small children in mind. And when you do build houses for sale, find ways to cut costs so that you can price your house within reach of at least some of the younger couples.

There's little the builder can do about the rising costs of building materials and labor as well as taxes and interest rates. What he can do is try new ways of using a given area of land.

Condominiums, row houses and cluster houses are all worth exploring. They can be cheaper and nicer, too.

Low Bid Said

$138,416 At

Purveyor Club

Needham Construction Co. of Dyersburg submitted the low bid of $138,416 Friday for construction of new country club facilities at Puryear.

W. F. Cary, Puryear banker who is president of Henry-Calloway Recreation Corp., said action will not be taken on the bid by the corporation's board until next week.

He said the Needham bid was the lowest of four submitted. Other bidders were Frank Barrett of Paris, Pioneer Construction Co. of Dyersburg and Ed Weaver Construction Co. of Jackson.

The Needham bid was $22,699 lower than the only complete bid submitted at an opening in September. That bid, by the Weaver firm, was $161,115.

Both bid openings were held at Farmers Bank and Trust Co. in Puryear.

Cary did not indicate whether the new bid was within the limit of funds available for the project. The corporation had $208,000 available for development, but that figure included land purchases and other costs.

The project calls for a club house, swimming pool, bath house, tennis courts, golf course and other facilities.

Electronic Box Office

The electronic box office machine in operation.

NEW YORK — "He never takes me to a show" will be as out-moded as last year's bonnet now that electronic box offices are on the scene.

The wife whose husband conveniently forgets to pick up theater tickets does not have to rely on his faulty memory in the future nor take a long trip to the city to queue up at a box office. She need only stop at her suburban department store, supermarket, local bank, travel agency or other convenient neighborhood location and purchase tickets — at regular box office prices — to plays, reserved seat movies, sports events and the like from a computerized box office that prints out the actual ticket instantly.

Developed by Ticket Reservation Systems, Inc., the electronic box offices are in cities across the country. Tickets can be purchased to local entertainment events or other attractions in any other city on the system. It operates in much the same manner as the computerized reservation systems used in airlines.

Here's how it works:

Special remote units are connected to a central computer which "memorizes" all seats for all attractions on the network. All remote terminals in the TRS operation can communicate in both directions with the central computer facility over ordinary telephone lines.

THE TRS computer has been programmed to select the best available seats in accordance with the customer's specifications — such as price range, location and date. Thus, a customer in Los Angeles, for example, can purchase a ticket in Los Angeles for a New York event and be offered the same choice as if she were at the box office in New York.

Once a customer requests ticket information, the computer instantly offers the best seat location available at that moment, along with an alternate selection. Both are printed out at the terminal and simultaneously removed from the computer's "inventory" for a short period until the customer decides which to buy.

A TOUCH of the "buy" or "buy alternate" button, and appropriate tickets are printed on the spot. The computer then automatically removes the seats from the available list so there's no possibility of a duplicate purchase at any other remote sales point.

The customer receives a bona fide printed ticket rather than a reservation slip which must be exchanged at the box office when non-computerized ticket services are used.

TRS, which operates the only coast-to-coast computerized system of electronic box offices, currently has some 40 entertainment events on its network of 50 terminals.

John C. Quinn Jr., TRS president, recently announced that an additional 1,400 terminal units will be delivered and installed throughout the country, under a $10 million leasing arrangement concluded with Transamerica Computer Company, a subsidiary of Transamerica Corp. All of these units are scheduled to be put into operation by October, 1969.

Income Tax Questions and Answers

Q—Should I keep my paycheck stubs for tax purposes? I just started a full-time job and will be filing my first tax return next year.

A—While these stubs may be helpful, the W-2, Wage and Tax Statement, you receive from your employer at the end of the year contains the wage data needed for tax purposes. It shows your total earnings and the Federal income and social security taxes withheld. A copy of the W-2 should be filed with your tax return.

However, many paycheck stubs show the amount withheld for items such as medical insurance and union dues. If you itemize deductions when you file your 1968 return, these totals should be helpful to you. It's a good practice to keep records of all expenses that are deductible for Federal income tax purposes. Put your receipts and cancelled checks for charitable contributions, medical expenses, and interest expenses in a special envelope, cigar box or file folder.

Q—My return was audited and I got a bill for additional tax. Can I pay this off in installments?

A—No, there is no provision for the payment of taxes in installments. Full payment is due upon receipt of the bill. Note that your bill includes interest at the rate of six percent a year on the unpaid balance. This interest will continue to be charged as long as the taxes remain unpaid.

Q—My son earned over $600 this summer working on a construction crew. He's now back at college and has a part-time job there. Will the money he makes cost me my dependency deduction for him?

A—Not necessarily. If he is under 19 at the end of the year or a full-time student, he may earn $600 or more and you may still claim the exemption if he otherwise qualifies as your dependent.

If any tax has been withheld from his wages he must file a return to obtain a refund. In any event, he must file a return when his gross income is $600 or more. In filing such a return he also claims his own exemption even though you claimed him as a dependent.

Q—I just got a divorce from my wife. Will I have to make any change in my tax withholding?

A—If you have been claiming a withholding exemption for your wife, file a new W-4, Employee's Withholding Exemption Certificate, with your employer dropping that exemption. Since you are divorced you are no longer entitled to claim her exemption.

If you have children and are claiming their exemptions you should drop them, too, unless you will be able to claim them for this year.

Serious Students
STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Half of the freshmen who entered American universities this fall plan to continue their education beyond a baccalaureate degree, according to a survey by the American Council on Education.

When asked what education objectives they consider essential, 90 per cent mentioned "developing a philosophy of life." Three out of four want to become authorities in their fields, and more than half want to help others in difficulty. A majority wants to keep up with political affairs, even though one-third believes an individual cannot change society. One in six says he participated in demonstrations during the past year.

STARE CASE—This lonely stairway to nowhere eventually will be a part of a new building under construction in a Pittsburgh renewal area.

Fight on Heart Disease Helped by Electronics

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI)—Electrocardiograms, coded electronically at the scene by a cardiac data acquisition console, can now be transmitted instantaneously from virtually any part of the world to a computer in America for analysis. This means that additional millions of sufferers from heart ailments, no matter where they live, can have, within minutes an analysis of the way that vital organ is functioning.

A key role in the Heart Disease Control Program of the United States Public Health Service is played by a device which is the brainchild of Dr. Cesar A. Caceres, director of the PHS Medical Systems Development Laboratory in Washington, D.C.

In 1960, Dr. Caceres, then an associate professor of medicine at George Washington University, and two colleagues began a study to investigate the possibility of fully automating the analysis of electrocardiograms.

Eventually the three medical scientists constructed a pilot model of an instrument to record electrocardiograms in an electronic code which could be transmitted over a telephone line to a distant computer for analysis in a matter of seconds.

Two Long Island electronics engineers, Henry Siegel and Herbert Adise, saw the potential in it and their company (Computer Instruments Corporation, of Hempstead) proceeded to manufacture it.

Earlier this year, the device was used in the first instantaneous transmission of vital medical information across an ocean, between France and the United States, as part of a joint effort of doctors in both countries.

Dr. Caceres calls automated electrocardiograph analysis "a giant step in the battle against heart disease, with its annual mortality rate in the United States of over 700,000."

New Resort in Mexico
MEXICO CITY (UPI)—At Barra de Navidad, a picturesque resort on Mexico's Pacific coast, a new and modern hotel is under construction, the Mexican National Tourist Council reports.

The resort, which is just beginning to develop for tourism, lies 185 miles southwest of Guadalajara. Low-cost accommodations are also scheduled for construction along the coast.

'City of Tomorrow' On Drawing Board

By Margaret M. McGovern

SOUTH WINDSOR, Conn. (UPI) — Megapolis is taking a trip to the country, the first trip of its kind in the United States, but the journey is expected to be short, just seven miles.

A $100 million industrial residential park is being planned for a 422-acre site just 10 minutes from Hartford, Connecticut's capital city.

"Parkcentre," a combined business and living complex will be built here next spring in this Connecticut Valley tobacco-growing town of 17,000.

South Windsor is situated seven miles from the Hartford line and, according to a planning report, the community founded in 1845 will be the area's population center in 1980.

It is in this urban-suburban area that a "new city within a city" will rise.

What will the city of tomorrow look like? The focal area is a theme plaza 800 feet in diameter, containing a 15-story office tower with a rooftop restaurant, an underground parking garage for 1,000 cars and an automotive center to service them.

A motor inn, with both motel and hotel facilities, one or two theatres, and facility shops, such as banks and a pharmacy, will be centered here. It will not be a shopping center, however. Its purpose is dependent on the industrial and residential tenants who will populate Parkcentre. Walking trails and gardens will be spaced throughout.

Two residential sections, Parkcentre East and Parkcentre West, lead away from the theme center and will contain clusters of apartments and single dwelling units.

Space for about 500 tenant buildings, set up campus style in circular and angular complexes of one- or two-story structures, is provided.

An Innovation

Nothing of this nature — a complex that has all the elements of a "new city" but does not follow the classic pattern — has ever been attempted before.

Usually a new city, such as Columbia, Md., is located halfway between two cities. Columbia, for example, is between Washington and Baltimore.

Parkcentre is different. It present plans go through Parkcentre will appear almost immediately after leaving Hartford center northeast on Route 5. It's a quick jump from the established city to the new.

Russell F. Broderick, a Hartford real estate developer, came up with the Parkcentre idea. A native of nearby Manchester, Broderick is familiar with the South Windsor area and had researched population studies and industrial potential.

The growth of South Windsor had been propelled by a shift in the capital's population. Hartford has shrunk from 177,000 in 1950 to a 1967 census of 161,000. This includes a notable immigration of residents from Puerto Rico to the center city.

Hartford's loss is South Windsor's gain. The population shift is steadily northeast.

Broderick has been working on the master plan for Parkcentre for almost three years. The 422-acre land package is owned by Savin Brothers, Inc., local road builders responsible for much of downtown Hartford's highway construction.

The Architect

The architect who designed the industrial-residential park is an innovator from the word "go" and a success story "the second time around."

Charles Luckman, whose offices are in New York City, is a former president of Lever Brothers who gave up the soap business in the late 1940's to go into the architectural designing field for which he was trained.

He designed Boston's Prudential Center and New York's new Madison Square Garden. Luckman presently is working on sketches for the Los Angeles Forum, a downtown civic center.

Broderick foresees no opposition to the planned industrial-residential park.

The whole model plan, with the exception of 10 per cent of the land, fits into the basic industrial zoning of the area. The town is constructing a new sewer system, just in time for the Parkcentre project.

Broderick calls Parkcentre unique in that "it will be developed according to a plan and all initial roads and utilities will be introduced and developed prior to market."

He terms it a "total blending of a residential population into a business and residential center." For anchor tenants, Parkcentre is aiming at branch offices of insurance or finance firms.

No federal funds are involved in the $100 million project that could transform this small, rural community. At present, South Windsor doesn't even have a place to call its center.

Kentucky Goes For Nixon And Marlow Cook Tuesday

By JOHN GUINIVEN

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The presidential race in Kentucky was one of the few clear spots in a fuzzy national picture Tuesday.

Republican Richard Nixon swept to an expected victory in the Bluegrass State, carrying 70 of the state's 120 counties and collecting 44 per cent of the votes cast. Nixon polled 453,372 popular votes.

With less than 3 per cent of the vote uncounted, Democrat Hubert Humphrey had 391,878 votes or 38 per cent, and American Independent party candidate George Wallace had 190,277 votes for 18 per cent. Nixon made only two campaign trips into Kentucky but was aided by the strong backing of Gov. Louie B. Nunn and a well-financed, well-organized state campaign.

Warm Voters

Nunn traveled throughout the state, warning voters that a vote for Wallace could throw the election into the House of Representatives. That, said Nunn, could result in a Humphrey victory.

His message apparently was effective, for the Wallace support dropped sharply in the last three weeks of the campaign. The former Alabama governor was expected to garner upwards of 25 per cent of the ballots.

The Wallace descent represented the only surprise in the presidential campaign in Kentucky. He managed to carry only five

Here is the latest tabulation of Kentucky votes in Tuesday's election:

President
Nixon	3,033 out of 3,047 pct.
Humphrey	453,372
Wallace	391,878
	190,277
Senate
Cook	3,033 out of 3,047 pct.
Peden	473,658
	442,677
House
1st District-Stubbsfield unopposed.
2nd District-Natcher 74,039; Simmons 59,705 complete.
3rd District-Cowger 79,314; Ray 60,884 544 of 548 precincts.
4th District-Snyder 103,242; Sheehan 96,438 complete.
5th District-Carter 96,084; Roberts 32,610 504 of 509 precincts.

counties-Todd, Hickman, Bullitt, Christian and Fulton.

Bullitt County, with a large blue-collar vote, was most likely the northernmost county in the nation that Wallace won.

The margin of Nixon's victory was predicted long before the more than one million Kentuckians went to the polls Tuesday. He raced to a lead landslide proportions in the early days of the campaign, then withstood a late Humphrey surge to post his landslide win.

Thomas J. Hutson Rites Are Held

The funeral for Thomas J. Hutson of Chicago, Ill., brother of Herman and Alvin Hutson of Murray, was held Monday at the McKee's Chapel, Paris, Tenn., with Rev. Kenneth Brewer officiating. Burial was in the McKee Cemetery.

Hutson, age 44, died Friday at the Veterans Hospital in Hinds, Ill. He was born June 27, 1924 in Henry County, Tenn., the son of the late Taylor Hutson and Betty Wilson Hutson. He was married July 8, 1944 to the former Emma J. Henderson and she survives.

The deceased is survived by his wife, three daughters, Nancy, Linda, and Melissa Hutson, three sons, Thomas, Robert, and Ronald Hutson, all of Chicago, Ill.; five sisters, Mrs. Irene Parrish, Mrs. Dorothy Speed, and Mrs. Edna Bercham, all of Paris, Tenn.; Mrs. Mildred Littlefield and Mrs. Lela May Powell of Florida; three brothers, John Hutson of Paris, Herman and Alvin Hutson of Murray.

Less Forest Fires

ST. PAUL, Minn.—With improved forest fire prevention activities, the 10-year average of 1,800 forest fires in the state of Minnesota has been reduced to 1,195, saving more than 86 thousand acres from being burned, according to the Minnesota Conservation Department.

Second Victory Here

It was the second presidential win in Kentucky for Nixon, who carried the state by 80,000 votes over the late President John F. Kennedy in 1960.

In this year's election, the former vice president parlayed large pluralities in the urban areas and the heavily Republican mountains of the 5th District into a win. He ran behind Humphrey in several Appalachian areas, however.

Humphrey obviously was hurt by lack of organization within the state Democratic party. It isn't until Oct. 11 that the first county chairmen were appointed and those organizational appointments came in only 49 counties.

Humphrey polled heavily in the Negro districts of the state's urban areas but his support was sapped in the Democratic western portion Kentucky by Wallace.

The white, middle-class vote in the larger cities failed to go en masse to Wallace, however, and voted instead for Nixon. Those votes offset the Negro turnout for Humphrey.

Landslide Prediction

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Landslides can be predicted by listening to sounds generated below the surface of the earth, according to University of California scientists.

The listening device is an array of sensitive "geophones"—small crystal sound pickups placed at various points in the ground.

Richard E. Goodman, assistant professor in the department of geological engineering, and graduate student John D. Cadman, said their method of pinpointing slides has proven successful both in field and laboratory tests.

feet was that of Rhode Island Gov. John H. Chafee.

Another veteran Democratic senator, Wayne Morse of Oregon, was involved in a cliffhanger against a Republican state legislator and the outcome was still in doubt at mid-day.

The new president will not have a clear national mandate. His share of the popular vote is the smallest given any president since Woodrow Wilson won a three-way contest with 41.9 per cent in 1912.

In the popular vote, Nixon and Humphrey ran almost even throughout the night in the count by the National Election Service. But it was a see-saw contest for the electoral votes allotted to the states on a basis of one for each of its members of the House and Senate.

After Nixon had taken an early lead, Humphrey moved ahead by winning such prizes as New York with its largest bloc of electoral votes, 43; Pennsylvania with 21; Massachusetts with 14, and then President Johnson's home state of Texas with 25.

Await Maryland Results

Typifying the teeter-totter events of the night was Maryland where Humphrey emerged in front by 19,000 votes when the voting machine tabulation was completed. But there were 35,000 absentee ballots which will not be counted until Thursday, continuing the uncertainty over the state's 10 electoral votes until then.

Except for Texas, Humphrey was shut out in the once solidly Democratic South. Nixon and Wallace each carried five states.

Humphrey trailed in third place in Tennessee, Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina.

Humphrey appeared to benefit across the country from massive support in Negro communities. The GOP had hoped to rebound in these areas.

Navajos' Self-Help Projects Spark Hope

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (UPI)—The Navajo men were mostly in their 30s or 40s and older. They spoke little English so the carpenter brought in to teach them the basics of repairing a house had to start from the beginning.
